

A TEC, a member of the Loesche Group, is one of the leading specialists in the field of pyroprocess optimization in the cement industry. Our innovative technologies help our customers to minimize production costs and reduce emissions. With headquarters in Austria and subsidiaries as well as representations in other countries, we have a global presence. To strengthen our team, we are looking for a:

Production Manager (Cement Clinker Production)

We seek an ambitious process engineer with experience as a Production Manager in the cement industry for working in Portuguese speaking countries.

Team workability, readiness to learn and develop as well as a expertise in our industry and a profound knowledge in English and Portuguese is required. A willingness to travel and to live abroad is essential.

Your responsibilities:

- Responsible for the following areas in production:
 - Grinding cement raw material
 - Klinker production
 - Grinding cement
 - Cement filling and loading
- To ensure the production time, costs, quantity and quality in a multi-shift operation
- To lead, motivate and ensure further development of the subordinate employees and make decisions on individual personnel actions in the area of responsibility
- A continuous optimization of the production processes, the plant technology and the work process
- Ensure continuous economic development of the production process
- Ensuring compliance with all legal requirements
- Pay attention to the safety and health of the employees
- Create efficient structures and processes for mining activities
- Make proposals for required new and replacement investments

Your profile:

- Degree in cement process engineering (or similar education)
- Experience at least 5 years in cement plant operation
- Know-how of cement clinker production and optimization
- Team leader for kiln operators

- Willing to work abroad in an international team
- Language skills: English (mandatory), Portuguese (highly recommended)

Are you interested in being a part of our team and supporting our position in the worldwide cement pyroprocess industry? We offer a motivated working group, the possibility of international travel, flexible working hours and development chances.

If you are interested in this position please send your application including your salary expectations via e-mail to e.goeres@atec-ltd.com

We are looking forward to your informative application.

www.atec-ltd.com