

A TEC, a member of the Loesche Group, is one of the leading specialists in the field of pyroprocess optimization in the cement industry. Our innovative technologies help our customers to minimize production costs and reduce emissions. With headquarters in Austria and subsidiaries as well as representations in other countries, we have a global presence. To strengthen our team, we are looking for an:

Mechanical Engineer (m/f)

We seek an ambitious technician with experience as Mechanical Engineer in the cement industry for working in Angola.

Team workability, readiness to learn and develop as well as a expertise in our industry and a profound knowledge in English and Portuguese is required. A willingness to travel and to live abroad is essential.

Your responsibilities:

- Responsibility for all mechanical maintenance works in the cement plant and takeover of necessary maintenance management and planning tasks
- Planning and organizing the execution of maintenance measures, regarding staff and spare parts in coordination with the production management
- Planning of the maintenance staff and ensure the staff training
- Planning and dispose of required spare parts for reparations and organizing the required spare parts inventory
- Preparation of inspection plans to ensure the operational readiness and the availability of the production plant.
- Determine regular preventive maintenance measures
- Work monitoring and support of the qualification measures of the staff
- Responsibility of keeping deadlines and safety regulations
- Advice to the production management and creating recommendations to increase the economic efficiency of the plant
- Participation at the definition of internal guidelines, as well as monitoring of the compliance of safety regulations and the health of the employees
- Collaboration on projects related to the production plant
- Planning and monitoring of the budget in the maintenance area as well as introduction of measures in case of deviation

Your profile:

- Technical education
- Experience at least 3 years as mechanical engineer in cement industry
- Know-how of cement clinker production and optimization
- Willing to work abroad in an international team
- Language skills: English (mandatory), Portuguese (highly recommended)

Are you interested in being a part of our team and supporting our position in the worldwide cement pyroprocess industry? We offer a motivated working group, the possibility of international travel, flexible working hours and development chances.

If you are interested in this position please send your application including your salary expectations via e-mail to Elisabeth Göres e.goeres@atec-ltd.com

We are looking forward to your informative application.

www.atec-ltd.com